

Command and Creation

(Amr va Khalq)

Compiled by Fadil Mazandarani

Translation of Index and Catalog of Contents by William McCants

Version 1: May 27, 2018

Mazandarani completed his massive compilation of the Baha'i writings in Arabic and Persian in 1945, which was published in four volumes of nearly 1,700 pages. I have translated his table of contents and cataloged the writings that appear in each section. Some of them are not published elsewhere. The catalog includes my notes in brackets and some rough translations of passages. There are doubtless many errors--it's a working document for my own research. But I'm sharing the text so English-speakers can see what's inside. I did not catalog Mazandarani's many citations of classical Islamic literature, which is also a treasury. - WFM

In the beginning, the foundation of his holiness Zoroaster and his holiness Buddha very much agreed, but afterwards there was distortion and change.
Methinks thou hast not seen the tablets and books that have been written about this. If thou art able to obtain the book published by Mirza Abu al-Fadl, it is sufficient. Be thou satisfied that the teachings of Baha'u'llah are universal teachings and that thou art aided by the potency of the Word of God, the breaths of the Holy Spirit, and a heavenly power.
At most, thou hast seen the published writings of his holiness Baha'u'llah. Published tablets relative to unpublished tablets are very partial. The foundations of the divine religions are one. That foundation shall become universal through the power of his holiness Baha'u'llah. [Makatib Abdu'l-Baha 3:378-9, translated at Kashkul]

 - a. (82-3) Abdu'l-Baha
 - i. Thou hast inquired about the condition of souls who were once people of faith and then strayed. In the beginning, these souls were believers but went astray because of tests and trials. Verily, the True One exchangeth light with darkness and exchangeth darkness with light. This veil ariseth from morals and deeds. The True One exchangeth bad deeds with good and exchangeth good deeds with bad (Cf. Q 25:70). For example, the lamp shineth but is extinguished by the winds of tests and trials; sound and whole but afflicted by chronic ill from the autumnal wind. A body fresh and new becometh moldering bones. That is what their hands have earned. The True One is kind, however, and the King of the Kingdom is forgiving. Regarding the foregoing, if those people perform a charitable act, it hath no foundation. There is no merit in turning away, and their works are of no avail. (translation based on better text in Makatib 3:205-6) [in the same tablet, Abdu'l-Baha discusses ribh and says the Bab set for a tanzil tijari, "business revelation"]

- a. (110) Baha’u’llah, Kitabi-i Iqan
- b. (110-11) Baha’u’llah, writing through Khadim Allah posted to [Kashkul]
 - i. “The second question concerneth the blessed verse of the Furqan [Qur’an], in which He, exalted be His station and transcendent be His sovereignty, saith: ‘And when Jesus son of Mary said: O Children of Israel! Lo! I am the messenger of Allah unto you, confirming that which was before me in the Torah, and bringing good tidings of a messenger who cometh after me, whose name is

Most Praised [Ahmad]. Yet when he hath come unto them with clear proofs, they say: This is mere magic.' [Qur'an 61:6]

- ii. You imply by the question that this passage hath never existed in the Gospel, even though the Messenger of God (blessings be upon him) mentioned it in the Furqan. Yea, we acknowledge this truth. However, his holiness did not say it was revealed in the Gospel. Verily, we bear witness that he said Jesus son of Mary spoke in accordance with what the All-Merciful revealed in the Furqan, and of course what he said and what the All-Merciful revealed in the Furqan hath been and shall ever be the pure truth, for none but God knoweth the hidden knowledge and comprehendeth what hath happened and what will happen in creation. God, exalted be He, revealeth and teacheth what He wisheth to His chosen ones and His prophets. Verily, He is the Knowing, the Wise.
- iii. This blessed revealed verse is one of the matters which God, exalted be He, disclosed to His Messenger. Although it is not in the Gospel, this is not proof that his holiness Christ did not say the verse, inasmuch as the four gospels--Matthew, Mark, Luke, and John--were written after that holy personage. After Christ, these four individuals wrote statements from his holiness that they saw so that his followers would busy themselves with reading and contemplating them. There are many of his statements which they did not see and many words he spoke which they did not hear. None knoweth what he said save the One who sent him, educated him, and aided him. God alone, exalted be His knowledge, knoweth all things, and He is the Omniscient, the All-Encompassing, the All-Knowing, the All-Powerful. Every atom testifieth that His knowledge encompasseth all things and surroundeth all creation. He, verily, is the Peerless, the Incomparable, the Omnipotent, the Resplendent, the All-Knowing, the All-Informed.
- iv. The Most Exalted Pen sayeth: In every dispensation, God, magnified be His glory, confirmeth His books that He revealed previously. The Messenger, may the spirits of all others be his sacrifice, confirmed the Torah and the Gospel. Likewise, in this dispensation is confirmation of the Furqan and other holy books. However, the Torah that God hath accepted is the same words that issued from Him through the tongue of the Speaker (Moses). This matter hath been mentioned briefly. If God, magnified be His glory, desireth, a more detailed explanation will flow from the Most Exalted Pen. [see better text in Khavari, Muhadarat 1:365]

- a. (385) Baha'u'llah, Kitabi-i Aqdas
 - i. “It behoveth everyone who reacheth this most sublime station, this summit of transcendent glory, to observe every ordinance of Him Who is the Desire of the world. These twin duties are inseparable. Neither is acceptable without the other....Say: From My laws the sweet smelling savour of My garment can be smelled, and by their aid the standards of Victory will be planted upon the highest peaks.”

- b. (385-6) Baha'u'llah, tablet to Karim
 - i. “...This Revelation hath not appeared for the sake of applying outer laws, as explained by the Pen of the Merciful. Rather, it is for revealing perfections in human souls and elevating their spirits to the eternal stations. What they believe hath appeared and been made manifest so that all may tread above earth and heaven. By my life! If the veil concealing this station were to burn away, spirits would soar unto the threshold of thy Lord, Who causeth the dawn to appear. But since we have commanded wisdom, we have concealed some of the stations so that the attraction of the Unconstrained may not seize the reins of choice and all may behave in accordance with the outward etiquette current among men and be the cause of humanity’s guidance. Some minds may reject some of the laws mentioned in the divine books because they do not know the benefits hidden therein. However, unless they are wholly deprived of reason, none can ever deny that which hath flowed from the Ancient Pen in this Most Great Manifestation with regards to coming together, unity, morality, etiquette, and busying oneself with what will uplift humanity. If the divine loved ones are not adorned with the ornaments of trustworthiness, sincerity, and truthfulness, its harm redounds to themselves and to all people. Firstly, those souls will never be repositories of the trustworthiness of the divine word and the hidden, divine secrets. Secondly, they shall always be the cause of the error and opposition of humanity.”

- f. (389-390) Abdu'l-Baha, Some Answered Questions, explaining verse in the Arabic Bayan
- g. (390-2) Abdu'l-Baha, Mahmud's Diary answering a question in America [actually in Europe]
 - i. "At the end of the session, one of the people attracted to the Evident Beauty asked about the status of souls who had good works and morals but were not believers. He said, "This Revelation is a Revelation of grace. Therefore, someone who does good works and has beautiful morals but is not a believer shall not be deprived of divine mercy. But human actions and virtues have degrees. One action benefits a single human, while the fruit of another benefits a human family like a people or tribe. But the benefit and fruit of one kind of action redounds to all people of the world. Its results are unlimited and its effects last as long as the world of existence lasts. Success by this kind of action is achieved by perfecting the human world, and this perfection is attained by clinging to divine teachings and to a spiritual force. For this reason, acceptance of human actions in the divine religions is dependent upon knowledge of the Dawning-Place of the Cause of the Merciful, and knowledge and understanding are contingent on and tied to behaving according to the instructions of the Bountiful Sovereign. When knowledge and action are united and understanding is paired with obedience, its effect will be evident in the world of existence and the secret of the gift of the Lord of love will be unveiled in the visible plane." [quote from Amr va Khalq incomplete; supplemented with Badayi` al-Athar, 2:337-8]
- h. (391-2) Abdu'l-Baha, answering a question during his trip to America [actually from remarks in Europe – Badayi` al-Athar 2:304]
 - i. "Someone asked about philanthropists and whether they would have a portion of (God's) mercy or not. He said: "This Revelation is a Revelation of grace. Therefore, philanthropists who do good deeds but are not believers shall not be deprived of the divine outpouring and grace. It is certain that someone who does not believe but behaves righteously is better than some who claims to love (God) and have faith but whose actions tell of the whisperings of Satan. Perfection, however, is attained when faith and action are combined. A philanthropist striving to spread the oneness of the world of humanity and promote peace and unity among the nations and peoples of the earth of course has a great station. But even if a person is trustworthy, he is still in need of an overwhelming power and a penetrating word to promote trustworthiness, fidelity, and the other stations and virtues for addressing difference and division. That power, the effect of which is extraordinary, must be the blessed Word whose influence is immense. It changes souls into a new creation and overturns their nature. For every cause there must be a center and the center of this overwhelming power is the Manifestation of the all-compelling Word of God and His transcendent Cause.”

art not sure, in such a circumstance istikhara is appropriate for you alone; for ordinary matters, it is not permissible. Now you must act accordingly, and once you make up your mind, trust in God.”

- b. (414-5) Guardian, in answer to a question about how to do istikhara with the Kitabi-i Aqdas [ie open the Aqdas randomly to seek guidance] if the means of consultation are absent and someone is hesitant about whether to undertake an important matter.

If it is possible to delay the decision until the means of consultation are available, that is better and more appropriate.” [Letter dated 23 April, 1941. - b. (509) Baha'u'llah, Risalih-yi Su'al va Javab
- c. (509-12) Abdu'l-Baha
 - i. "As for the issue of zina', in the divine tablets regarding adultery, a certain amount distress, censure, and retribution is mentioned, which is not a (physical) punishment. The person who commits adultery is outcast and ejected from the door of unity. In the eyes of the friends, he is blameworthy, and in the eyes of the people generally he is despised. Even in the words of the Bayan, it is "evident loss" and "eternal deprivation." However, regarding government and political qisas, such a command is not issued because the government now in all the world will never oppose zina'. Thus, the judgment does not scandalize the world. This punishment with respect to that is vile and scandalizes the world. It is merely reviled. This scandalousness is the greatest punishment. Note that in the text of the Qur'an, it was never fixed. Because four must agree on it, the testimony must be completely established in every respect. Therefore, although the ruling on zina' was not fixed, is one able to say that zina' is not important in the Qur'an? No, by God! Be fair, O people of fairness."  - d. (174-5) Abdu'l-Baha, in a question and answer session with him
 - e. (175-6) Abdu'l-Baha
 - i. "Concerning polygamy, this has been decreed and will not be abrogated. `Abdu'l-Bahā has not abrogated this law and [accusation of abrogation] is a lie [made up] by the friends. What I said is that He has made polygamy bound on the precondition of justice. As long as someone does not attain certitude that he can practice justice and his heart is not certain that he can practice justice, he should not marry a second [wife]. But if he becomes certain that he can practice justice on all levels, then marrying a second [wife] is permitted. Just as has been the case in the Holy Land: the [Baha'i] friends wished to marry a second [wife] but on this precondition, and this servant (meaning himself) never abstained [from giving permission], but insisted that justice must be implemented, and justice is the peak of abstention; but they said, that they will practice justice and wished to marry a second [wife]. Such false accusations (meaning charges that `Abdu'l-Bahā prohibited bigamy) are the whisperings of those who wish to induce doubts and [see] how much they are making matters ambiguous. The purpose was to state that polygamy without justice is not allowed and that justice is very difficult [to achieve]." [translated in anti-Baha'i book, "Twelve Principles"]

Divorce is conditional upon the approval and permission of the Spiritual Assembly. The members of the Assembly must in such matters independently and carefully study and investigate

If there should be valid grounds for divorce and it is found that reconciliation is utterly impossible, that antipathy is intense and its removal is not possible, then the Assembly may approve the divorce.” (Shoghi Effendi, from a Tablet to the National Spiritual Assembly of Iran - translated from the Persian, in the compilation on Divorce)

Reality will have come to an end, and the teachings of God will have been truly established on the earth, and the lights will have filled its easts and wests. On that day, the believers will rejoice.”

b. (481-2) Abdu'l-Baha

- i. “The fulfillment of the first prophecy of Daniel is calculated from the beginning of the mission of His Holiness the Messenger, which is approximately 1280 according to the hijri calendar. The second prophecy is according to the hijri calendar, meaning from the beginning of the hijra. So it is 1335, which has not yet come.” [1280 is 1863-4, 1335 is 1916-1917]

c. (482) Guardian

- i. “You have asked about the length of the period of present straightened circumstances. He has responded that the timing of the alleviation of the straightened circumstances, the freedom of the Cause of God, and the independence of the law of God is unknown. Its knowledge is with God but it is established and certain. The friends have a great influence and effect on the present circumstances, the mode of the appearance of the divine promises, and the proclamation of the heavenly law. The present change of circumstances in Iran have no connection with the prophecy of the Book of Daniel and the completion of the first Baha’i century. This prophecy refers to and is connected with the victory of the Cause of God and the spread of the principles of the law of God in the east and west of the earth. It has not, and will not be, limited to a particular region.”

[Mazandarani ends by writing that the book was completed “in the hundreth Baha’i year, corresponding to 1324 hijri and 1945 AD in the city of Mashhad in Khurasan.”]
